

About the project

Apraemio is a novel cryptocurrency project that creates the first deflationary utility token offering a growing backing basket of precious metals, community rewards and multiple use cases, including charity initiatives.

At the heart of the ecosystem is our Gold Redemption Program which offers token holders the possibility to exchange their APRA tokens for real gold mined through our exploration project with an estimated reserve of 100 to 500 tons of gold in the ground.

Meet Apraemio

The Apraemio project is a full-fledged ecosystem that will offer various community rewards and a growing set of multiple use cases unique to the APRA token. We have already acquired the exploration rights on a 65 sq. km. area in Mali after conducting a geological survey using advanced 3D satellite imaging technology. Large amounts of gold were suggested to be on the site, 50% of which will be distributed among APRA holders.

The organization behind the Apraemio project is a group of multiple companies across various industries, many of which are working in conjunction. Our combined experience and existing customer base will allow us to offer a wide set of different use cases with the APRA token.

We plan on establishing APRA not only as an all-round, low-risk investment asset with high potential ROI, but also on offering a variety of innovative complementary use cases to its holders through the creation of a cutting-edge, blockchain-based web platform in Version 2 of the project development. Our vision is to position APRA as the future universal cryptocurrency.
